Course Descriptions

ENGL 1301: The course is divided into thirds: philosophy, Shakespeare's Hamlet, and critical theory. It begins with a survey of the history of Western philosophy by reading representative readings from Plato and Aristotle to Descartes, continuing with selections from Locke, Hume, Wittgenstein, Leibniz, Hegel, Kierkegaard, Schopenhauer, and Husserl. What follows is a philosophically influenced reading of Shakespeare's Hamlet. Afterwards, there is a selected reading in the fields of rhetoric, hermeneutics, and ethics. The course concludes with short introductions to critical theory, from structuralism to posthumanism.

ENGL 1302: The course is divided into thirds: philosophy, Shakespeare's Othello, and critical theory. It begins with a survey of the history of Western philosophy by reading representative readings from Plato and Aristotle to Descartes, continuing with selections from Locke, Hume, Wittgenstein, Leibniz, Hegel, Kierkegaard, Schopenhauer, and Husserl. What follows is a philosophically influenced reading of Shakespeare's Othello. Afterwards, there is an intensive survey of critical theories and associated readings from structuralism to posthumanism.

ENGL 2311: Intensive study of and practice in professional settings. Focus on the types of documents necessary to make decisions and take action on the job, such as proposals, reports, instructions, policies and procedures, email messages, letters, and descriptions of products and services. Practice individual and collaborative processes involved in the creation of ethical and efficient documents.

ENGL 2322: A survey of the development of British literature from the Anglo-Saxon period to the Eighteenth Century. Students will study works of prose, poetry, drama, and fiction in relation to their historical, linguistic, and cultural contexts. Texts will be selected from a diverse group of authors and traditions.

ENGL 2323: A survey of the development of British literature from the Romantic period to the present. Students will study works of prose, poetry, drama, and fiction in relation to their historical, linguistic, and cultural contexts. Texts will be selected from a diverse group of authors and traditions.

ENGL 2327: A survey of American literature from the period of exploration and settlement through the Civil War. Students will study works of prose, poetry, drama, and fiction in relation to their historical and cultural contexts. Texts will be selected from among a diverse group of authors for what they reflect and reveal about the evolving American experience and character.
